A select exhibition in a private gallery

It's not that photographer Peggy Levison Nolan is unaware of the modern tools used by her tech-savvy peers. She simply chooses to ignore them, preferring an authenticity that digital cameras and Photoshop can undermine. Her recent work is a celebration of the unexpected formal beauty to be found in life's mundane moments—if they're captured from the perfect angle, with an eye for the poetry and humor of unlikely juxtapositions. In one shot, a chicken carcass in butcher's paper transcends its unenviable fate, its vibrant golds and pinks contributing as much to the picture's visual pop as the fruit bowls and shimmering surfaces. At Dina Mitrani Gallery, 2620 NW 2nd Ave., Miami, (786) 486-7248. Through April 23. Prices range from $1,200 to $2,000.

A 2010 still life
